THE CHICAGO STOCK YARDS

The Enemy of the Plains Cattle Raiser.

The deadly combination which has been steadily working against the interests of plains cattlemen the past three years, has at last reached a crisis. The "black Friday" has come. From a steady, square, look into the face of the grim monsters which present themselves to our view, we must see only ruin to the beef shipper, who, having to compare notes, must see that the condition of the Chicago live beef market and the expense attendant upon the railroad transportation, hay, yardage and commission, which is nearly $20 for every $100 of the value of his cattle. From any point on the outedges of the frontier this is true. A combination of well devised and long-deliberated planning on the part of buyer and middlemen has surely wound a mesh around a seller of grass beef in the fall season, which can but soon show a culmination to our business. When it is known by every beef eater that at retail beef has a steady market price which seldom fluctuates in our great cities, and whose supplies now largely are filled by the refrigerator and Chicago slaughter system; upon the other hand, view the live weight prices paid for the cattle in Chicago by these slaughter-house ring butchers, such as Armour, Swift and Hutchinson, it is easily seen how, and to whom, the profits go. Now to him who shall successfully and by actual test, show up how we plains men can run our cattle to Chicago, or, in other words, dispose of our fall shipments without being at the mercy of these sharks, a monument of marble or bronze will be reared—if not of the real stuff, then engraved in memory by us all. Now what blind uncertainty to load a train of cattle 2,000 miles from market! Will the market be bare or overstocked on arrival? Will there be an understanding that such or such a man will be the buyer that day? If so, what price is the limit? What less than blackballed would be the fate of the owner of the train load that should, for once, to save fifty cents per head, be his own consignor. To "strike" a good market these days is an exception, and the commission men (they are mainly gentlemen) have it by this time well fastened upon the end of their tongue, that they "hope the next time will do better, or they are 'sorry' the cattle were not a little smoother, etc.

Those among the weightiest of the plains cattle companies who have undertaken the system of stall feeding have not yet convinced others (nor themselves either perhaps) that such a procedure has any profit connected therewith. In fact it is stated on good authority that the contrary is nearer the facts so that we might as well call "a spade a spade" and say that the monopolists of Chicago control our business and take the bull by the horns and by a concerted effort, cut loose from our enemy. I can see but one way out of it. Were a combination of northwestern plains cattle to be withheld from the market this fall, saving a small percentage to pay running expenses, it would surely break things loose. But so many cattle are shipped each fall the proceeds of which are designed to pay dividends, that for once this would have to go by when we take into consideration that the heft of this business is held and controlled by capitalists. They may in reality be sure of good results by holding out of market for another year. Gentlemen look at the beggerly condition of Chicago cattle market this fall and tell me if you can that it is the occasion of over production? How soon if this concerted monopoly continues before it will be recorded of five cattle shippers like the car of consigned corn, that lately went the rounds of the newspapers that needed $5 from the owner to "pay deficits." Or in other words, he corn didn't sell for enough by $5 to pay the expenses of getting it to Market and selling it there.—Esor, in Choyenue Journal.

From present appearances it looks as if we would have a steady rain all night.

Maids to the Bride.

The bridesmaids at Lady Yardoroug's wedding formed a perfect bouquet of beauty. Lord Abergavenny's two lovely twin daughters, the Ladies Rose and Violet Neville, were among them. They were eight in all, and wore extremely pretty dresses of white silk, white crepe embroidered in gold, and small crepe bonnets with gold ospreys introduced among the trimmings. Their bouquets were yellow roses mixed with stephanotis and brown leaves. Now can you not fancy what a charming group they made! Many eyes were turned constantly upon them, and small wonder that it was so.

A Merited Recognition.

The following telegram was sent to Gen. Miles at Fort Bowie to-day from the leading citizens of Tombstone in honor of his settlement of the Indian question in this territory and New Mexico. Owing to the lack of space we were unable to furnish the names.

TOMBSTONE, Sept. 7, 1886.

TO GEN. NELSON A. MILES, FORT BOWIE, VIA WILCOX, ARIZONA:—Cochise County appreciates your grand success in the capture of Geronimo. We congratulate yourself, Capt. Lawton and his command.

Gen Miles' Answer.
"Your very kind congratulatory message received. The approval of the citizens, whose homes are scattered through these territories, of the fortitude and achievements of our national troops is most highly appreciated by them. I rejoice with your people in the promise of new life, security and prosperity. The removal of a race that has been, for generations, the enemy of civilization, will, I trust enable your citizens, to enjoy fully, in permanent peace, the undeveloped wealth of their country."

Miles, Lawton and Crook Receive Praise from the War Department on Account of Geronimo's Surrender.

Geronimo to be Tried.

Special to THE DAILY TOMBSTONE.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—Officers of the War Department were especially gratified at learning that Geronimo's surrender was unconditional. The opinion prevails in some quarters that the Indians will be transferred to the custody of the Interior Department for the time, and that Geronimo and his lieutenants will ultimately be surrendered to the civil authorities of Arizona, and put upon trial for murder, with the result that would require little effort to guess. An officer of high rank however inclines to the belief that the President will never consent to surrender Geronimo to the civil authorities, but will order his trial by court martial, if it should be regarded as proper to try him at all. The same officer said that the successful ending of the campaign would be of inestimable value to the Territory of Arizona, as hostiles had so ravaged and harrassed a large area of rich country as to render it uninhabitable.

In a Big Hurry.

Special to THE DAILY TOMBSTONE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 8.—The Examiner's Washington special says: Indian Commissioner Atkins says, Geronimo will be hurried east and put in a safe place. It also says that all the Chiricahuas will now be removed from Arizona and probably taken to Florida.

Praise for Miles and Lawton.

Special to THE DAILY TOMBSTONE.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—General satisfaction is expressed at the War Department upon receipt of the news of Geronimo's surrender. Great praise is bestowed upon General Miles for the excellent conduct of the campaign. Gen. Crook's work is not forgotten. It is said results of Crook's campaign were of great value to Miles. Captain Lawton has also distinguished himself as a gallant officer, and his pursuit of the hostiles under adverse conditions and hardships was thoroughly commendable. The Acting Secretary of War was not prepared to say what disposition would be made of the captives, but certainly he said nothing would be done in the matter until the President's wishes were given.

Reduction of Freight Charges.

Special to THE DAILY TOMBSTONE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 8.—Pacific coast freight agents of transcontinental lines, have announced a reduction in rates for east-bound freight of fifty per cent. with minimum rate of fifty cents per hundred pounds, to Chicago and St. Louis. The action was taken owing to the fierce opposition being waged by the Pacific Mail Steamship Co., and the Canadian Pacific Railway. Reduced rates have been made guaranteed up to next Saturday.

The Czar's Letter.

Special to THE DAILY TOMBSTONE.

RUSTCHUCK, Sept. 8.—The Czar's reply to Alexander's letter of August 30th, was not made public here until yesterday. It raised a storm of popular consternation and indignation. Many officers of the army advocate the resistance of Russia if she deposes Alexander against the will of the people.

More Earthquake.

Special to THE DAILY TOMBSTONE.

ATHENS, Sept. 8.—Several shocks of earthquake were felt to-day in this city, and at Kaverta and elsewhere.
